Moody's ta mehora e rating di Aruba Airport Authority pa Baa2

Mehoracion sosteni di midinan operacional y financiero hunto cu e trafico di pasahero cu ta aumentando den e ultimo añanan

Dia 10 di april ultimo, e Credit Rating Agency Moody's a anuncia cu el a mehora e rating di Aruba Airport Authority N.V. di Baa3 pa Baa2.

Moody's su ultimo rating di AAA ta fecha dia 6 di januari 2012, ora cu AAA su rating Baa3 a wordo poni bou evaluacion pa un posibel 'upgrade'. E evaluacion aki a conclui n'e mehoracion di e rating pa AAA.

Den e diferente categorianan di rating di Moody's, el a rate AAA bou di e metodologia di e asina yama "Government Related Issuer" (GRI) cu ta combina e "Baseline Credit Assessment" (AAA su calidad di creditosu so) hunto cu e evaluacion di AAA su relacion cu Gobierno di Aruba, AAA su unico shareholder.

Moody's a nota cu AAA su calidad di credito ta substancialmente proteha pa su bista di Gobierno di Aruba su propio calidad di credito.

Den Moody's su analisis AAA su dependencia riba e sector di turismo, posibel desaroyonan na Venezuela (cu ta conta cu 12% di e trafico), e posibel introduccion di un impuesto di turismo cu lo por negativamente influencia e competencia den costo di e Aeropuerto y e peticion di Gobierno di Aruba pa paga dividendo despues di alcansa e acuerdonan prometi ta wordo menciona como retonan cu AAA ta enfrentando.

Den e mesun analisis Moody's ta menciona e acuerdo di cooperacion cu Schiphol como un di AAA su aspectonan fuerte importante y un di e motornan cu a contribui n'e mehoracion di rating pa AAA. Segun Moody's e acuerdo cu e rating stabil A1 di Schiphol ta yuda eficiencianan operacional y di maneho.

Otro motornan tras di e rating cu ta wordo menciona t'e hecho cu e trafico a mustra di ta relativamente resistente p'e recesion economico global, un base di aerolinea diversifica cu e share di e aerolinea mas grandi cu no ta surpasa 16%, AAA su peso di debe modera, e 'debt service coverage ratio' solido y e posicion fuerte di liquididad, brindando flexibilidad financiero y operacional, apoyo di acuerdonan legal y proteccion di e investor den e acuerdo, y finalmente e programa di capital modera cu probablemente no lo rekeri mas debe den e futuro sercano.

Den e anuncio di Moody's e ta bisa cu: "E ahuste ta refleha mehoracion sosteni den metriconan operacional y financiero cu apoyo di aumento den trafico di pasahero den e ultimo añanan. Nivelnan di cantidad di buelo anualmente a keda aumenta desde 2009 y tabata wordo impacta den forma minimo dor di e crisis financiero global." AAA su CEO Peter Steinmetz ta comenta: "Den temponan economico turbulento, manera nos a experencia den e ultimo añanan, nos a custumbra cu e 'downgrading' di banco, Gobierno y otro institucionnan.

P'e motibo ey e ta mas remarcabel cu den e mesun area ey AAA su bondnan a ricibi un 'upgrade', bayendo contra di e coriente. Nos, na AAA, ta sinti cu nos esfuersonan pa crea un entidad financiero solido ta dunando nan fruto y ta wordo reconoci p'e mundo financiero. Esaki ta crea un imagen beneficioso di no solamente e compania, pero tambe di e isla den su totalidad." P'e reportahe complete di Moody's bishita www.moodys.com

No 40%, pero 40 trahador

Den e articulo riba ultimo pagina di e edicion di ayera di Den Noticia a menciona cu den e conferencia di prensa,lider di fraccion di AVP, Rene Herde, a bisa cu e compania PetroChina lo trece no mas cu "40 porciento" di e trahadornan p'e refineria di afo.

Esaki no ta corecto. Loke a wordo bisa ta cu e compania lo haya permiso pa trece no mas cu 40 pa 50 trahador. Esaki ta mescos cu e companianan Coastal y Valero a haya y ta pa motibo cu na Aruba tin un forsa laboral capacita y cu experiencia pa maneha e refineria.

Esaki ta menos costoso cu trece trahadornan di afo. Di e forma aki, e publicacion a ser coregi y si e por a causa disgusto serca lider di fraccion di AVP, nos kier bisa cu esey sigur no tabata nos intencion. Nos disculpa!!

Jeremy Hellickson hit in head

DETROIT -- Tampa Bay Rays right-hander Jeremy Hellickson has been taken to a hospital as a precaution after being hit in the head by a ball during batting practice before Wednesday's game at Detroit.

Manager Joe Maddon says the 25-year-old Hellickson was not bleeding and did not lose consciousness.

Hellickson is scheduled to start Saturday at Boston. He was throwing a bullpen session while the Tigers were taking batting practice when he was hit. He was helped from the bullpen on a cart, but Maddon was optimistic Hellickson was "stunned more than anything."

Hellickson went 13-10 with a 2.95 ERA last year in his first full season as a major league starter. He pitched 8 2/3 scoreless innings in a 3-0 win over the New York Yankees on Sunday.

Mark Cuban draws on WWE history

Dallas Mavericks owner Mark Cuban has never been one to back down from a challenge, especially one from a fellow NBA owner and billionaire -- in this case Mikhail Prokhorov of the New Jersey Nets.

Prokhorov, who has attended only one game this season because of his campaign to become president of his native Russia, took a joking jab at Cuban while discussing soon-to-be free agent guard Deron Williams with reporters Tuesday.

Recognizing that Dallas is the primary competition to sign the Nets' superstar, Prokhorov threatened to inflict pain if Cuban convinces Williams, who grew up near Dallas, to play for the Mavs next season.

"Let the best man win," Prokhorov said, joking about his competition with Cuban to sign Williams. "If he wins, I will crush him in a kickboxing throwdown."

The 6-foot-9 Prokhorov has a significant reach advantage over Cuban, but it wouldn't be Cuban's first brawl with a much bigger foe.

"He obviously didn't see me be the first in WWE history to put Sheamus on the mat," Cuban replied Wednesday night via email, referring to his guest host appearance on "Monday Night Raw" in 2009. "He knows not what he gets himself into."

Of course, Cuban doesn't mention that he ended up being slammed back-first through a table by Sheamus. Or that he was put in a sleeper hold -- the "RKO" -- by Randy Orton during his first Raw appearance in 2003.

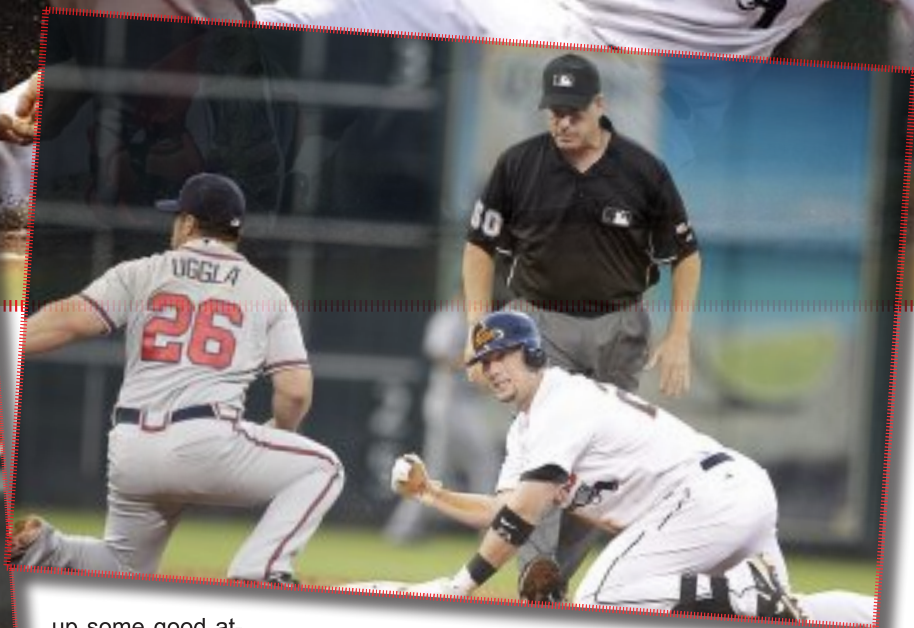

But that'd be a small price to pay for getting an All-Star point guard in his prime.

Chipper Jones homers in return as Braves notch season's first win

HOUSTON -- Chipper Jones was worried his timing would be off after missing time with a knee injury.

The Atlanta Braves' star third baseman quickly realized there was no need for concern.

Jones came off the disabled list and began his final season in the majors with a single and a two-run homer to help the Braves get their first win of the season, 6-4 over the Houston Astros on Tuesday night.

"I think today he won our game singlehandedly, really," Atlanta manager Fredi Gonzalez said.

The nearly 40-year-old Jones didn't look a bit rusty in his return after missing Atlanta's first four games following surgery on March 26 to repair a torn meniscus in his left knee. The switch-hitter, who plans to retire at the end of this season, singled in his first at-bat and hit a left-handed homer -- the 455th of his career -- in the third inning to put the Braves up 3-1.

Jones brushed off the notion that he was the boost that finally got the Braves in the win column.

"I'm not going to say I was the spark," he said. "Obviously, the two-run homer was a big lift, but I'd much rather be a calming influence, have them look down there, see me and know that I'm going to put up some good at-bats and hopefully make the play when it's hit to me. And if they feed off that, great."

The Braves had talked about sending Jones on a rehabilitation assignment in the minors before his return, but he opted to come straight back to the big league team.

"I'm glad that we didn't make him go on that rehab assignment," Gonzalez said with a laugh.

Houston manager Brad Mills talked about how having Jones back changed the Braves.

"He had a big night, but even if he doesn't have that big night, it just spreads out that lineup a little bit and definitely gives them a little more weaponry," Mills said.

Rookie Tyler Pastornicky added a solo shot for the Braves, sending his first major-league homer into the Crawford Boxes in left field to push Atlanta's lead to 4-1 in the fourth inning.

Atlanta starter Tommy Hanson (1-1) yielded six hits and two runs with eight strikeouts in five innings for the win. Craig Kimbrel pitched a scoreless ninth for his first save.

Jordan Schafer singled in the seventh before scoring after consecutive one-out singles that chased Kris Medlen. Chris Johnson's two-out single scored J.D. Martinez and got Houston within 5-4 with runners at first and second.

Eric O'Flaherty escaped the jam by striking out Chris Snyder to end the inning.

Pinch-hitter Eric Hinske drove in an insurance run with a single in the eighth inning that made it 6-4.

Kyle Weiland (0-1), who joined the Astros in an off-season trade from Boston, allowed eight hits and four runs in five innings.

"I think my intensity was a little too high," Weiland said. "I wasn't nervous, but I was just overly excited. That is where the command came into problems."

The loss spoiled a special day for Houston, which entered the game having won three straight.

The Astros, who began as the Colt .45s, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their first game on Tuesday by wearing throwbacks fashioned after the original Colt .45 uniforms.

Terry Francona: Wounds too fresh

Still chafed by the way his tenure in Boston ended, former Boston Red Sox manager Terry Francona said Tuesday he would not be a part of any team festivities next week celebrating the 100th anniversary of Fenway Park.

Francona, now a baseball analyst for ESPN, told The Boston Globe for Wednesday's editions that "somebody went out of their way to make me look pretty bad."

He was referring to a Globe report which cited unnamed team sources as saying Francona's performance as skipper in 2011 might have been affected by his troubled marriage and use of pain medication.

"It's a shame," Francona told the Globe's Dan Shaughnessy, with whom he is writing a book. "I'm sure they'll have a great event and I was part of a lot of that stuff there, but I just can't go back there and start hugging people and stuff without feeling a little bit hypocritical."

Francona and the Red Sox parted ways after the club collapsed last September and missed the playoffs. Shortly after, the Globe published a story painting the Red Sox clubhouse as dysfunctional and Francona as a manager unable to control the situation.

The Red Sox have invited back every former player or manager, including Francona, for the centennial celebration of Fenway Park next week, which culminates in the 100th anniversary game on April 20.

In March, Francona said he was unsure if he would attend the 100th anniversary events at Fenway. "I don't know, I wouldn't anticipate it at this point. I'm not quite ready for the hugs yet," he said at the time.

Tuesday, Francona said he turned down the offer in a phone call with owner John Henry last month and again in a conversation with team president Larry Lucchino on Monday, according to the report.

"Larry called me yesterday," Francona told the Globe on Tuesday. "I was in a phone store in Arizona. I had three people standing around me. I was at a little bit of a disadvantage. He got a little perturbed at me, telling me I was being unfair to them.

"I called him back last night and left him a message. He called me back and we ended up getting into an argument. I just feel like someone in the organization went out of their way to hurt me and the more we talked I realized we're just not on the same wavelength. They're probably better off going forth and leaving me out of it."

Lucchino told the Globe he understood "how strongly (Francona) feels on this matter."

"I thought there was some uncertainty as to whether he had actually gotten the invitation," Lucchino said, according to the report. "He's going to be here (April 22 vs. the Yankees) for the Sunday night game (as part of ESPN's broadcast team), so I called him and invited him and he declined.

"It was a sincere invitation for him to come back. He has an exalted place in our history and we were hoping it would be convenient and comfortable for him to come back and we were hoping it would be," Lucchino said, according to the Globe.

Dirk Nowitzki, Rodrigue Beaubois lead Mavs' balanced attack in win

DALLAS -- The Dallas Mavericks finally won a game without Lamar Odom, who is no longer an option for them.

Rodrigue Beaubois, Jason Terry and the rest of the guys still coming off the bench for the defending NBA champions did just fine in a much-needed victory before going on the road, 110-100 over the struggling Sacramento Kings on Tuesday night.

Yi Jianlian, a 7-foot forward from China, added eight points with four long jumpers in a 5-minute span of the second quarter when the Mavericks went ahead to stay.

"We needed it. (The backups) had good energy put the ball in the basket," coach Rick Carlisle said. "I thought Yi's minutes were vital. ... It energized us, kept us going."

Dirk Nowitzki and Beaubois each had 15 points to lead six players in double figures for the Mavs, who had lost three of their previous four games. They are seventh in the Western Conference standings, a half-game behind sixth-place Houston and only a half-game ahead of Denver.

Dallas (32-26) plays six of its last eight games on the road, with a four-game trip in five days starting Thursday at Golden State. They play at home again next Wednesday against the Rockets.

"We've got a lot of veterans in here and we've been through worse than that," Terry said when asked about Odom's departure. "We wish him the best in his future endeavors, but that's now all in the past and we are focused on the job at hand, and that's making the playoffs."

In a strange twist, Dallas was 0-7 in games Odom missed before Tuesday, a day after the team said they had parted ways with the NBA's reigning Sixth Man of the Year. His averages of 6.6 points, 4.2 rebounds and 20.5 minutes in his underwhelming 50-game stint were career lows.

Mavericks owner Mark Cuban said the end came after a heated halftime exchange with Odom after the forward's uninspired four minutes at Memphis on Saturday night.

"I just asked him, does he want to go for it or not? Is he in or is he out? I think he thought we were playing poker. I just didn't get a commitment. And that was the end," Cuban said before the game in his first public comments about Odom's departure.

When asked if that was the first time he noticed Odom having such a demeanor, Cuban responded, "No, but the first 17 times, I decided to try to help him and turn it into a positive."

Odom is still on the roster, but Dallas said he would be listed as inactive for the rest of its games and is no longer with the team.

Carlisle said the Mavericks are only focused on what they have to do moving forward.

Delonte West and Terry each had 13 points, and Brendan Haywood 11 for Dallas. Shawn Marion had 10 points and 14 rebounds.

Dallas never trailed again after a 12-3 run over a 2½-minute span early in the second quarter with none of its starters on the floor. Beaubois started it with a three-point play and Vince Carter had a 3-pointer for a 31-29 lead.

Marcus Thornton made a 3-pointer for the Kings before Yi had back-to-back jumpers that sandwiched a blocked shot by Carter before one of the highlight play of the night.

Carter had a steal and pushed the ball ahead to Terry, who threw the ball up in the air over his shoulder to a flying Brandan Wright for a powerful dunk.

After Sacramento tied the game for the last time, Beaubois had two free throws and Yi had two more long jumpers.

DeMarcus Cousins had 25 points and 18 rebounds for the Kings (19-39), who have lost five in a row and 10 of 12.

Thornton, Isaiah Thomas and Tyreke Evans each had 16 points for the Kings.Jimmer Fredette had 13.

Sacramento had an 8-0 run to get within 92-87 in the fourth quarter before Delonte West stole the ball from Cousins and got fouled. West hit both free throws to start a game-clinching 12-4 run.

"I thought the tone was set for us to play, we had to make sure we kept this game under control," Kings coach Keith Smart said. "We had a few little details of turning the ball over or maybe some quick shots, but that's what you get with a team that's trying to learn how to win and close out quarters."
